

Who We Are

Fitzroy Centre is a psycho-social rehabilitation program that focuses on the recovery of individuals who have experienced mental illness. As an ICCD Clubhouse Model program, we use a holistic approach and focus on an individual's strengths, talents and skills. We provide our members with the opportunity to set personal goals, access supports and become members of a supportive and restorative community.

"I went to the Clubhouse and it changed my life ... it took me away from the isolation." ... Fitzroy Centre Member

Fitzroy Centre is built upon the belief that every member has the potential to sufficiently recover from the effects of mental illness and lead a personally satisfying life as an integrated member of society. We are committed to providing supportive services that will help decrease the social isolation and the sense of loss often associated with mental illness.

Our Clubhouse is organized around work, and work-mediated relationships. Members choose their level of involvement in a variety of different work areas and program activities. Involvement in the Clubhouse activities is restorative and provides a firm foundation for growth and important individual achievement.

Clubhouse Motto

What We Do

Fitzroy Centre offers support to members through four Clubhouse Units. The main objectives of these units is to provide prevocational and skill development opportunities while assisting members achieve their goals.

The members and staff work side-by-side on a daily basis completing the tasks necessary to operate the Clubhouse. There is an atmosphere of cooperation and ownership within the Clubhouse. While there is opportunity for work, many other supports are available to members. These include (but are not limited to) social activities, education supports, advocacy, wellness programs and financial management.

Clubhouse Units

When an individual is accepted, they choose to become a member of one of our four Clubhouse Units. Attendance is voluntary but members are encouraged to participate on a regular basis. This helps develop a sense of structure in their day and enhances each individual's sense of belonging. Members are encouraged to participate in unit activities and are given the support and assistance they need to participate.

In addition to working in the Clubhouse Units, members are encouraged to set and achieve individual goals. Staff and other members provide support, advocacy and access to resources, both in the Clubhouse and the community, to help members achieve their goals.
